

CRYSTAL CASTLE

By Mikailya, Detroit

Once upon a time in the kingdom of Seiris, two princesses, Mia and May were born. They both had beautiful brown hair and blue eyes. Two months later, a terrible evil named Liverna unleashed her destructive fury on the whole of Seiris. The king and queen feared as long as the young princesses stayed in Seiris, they would be destroyed with the whole kingdom. The king and queen had to make the hardest decision they ever made. "We must send our girls to earth!" the queen said.

"Yes! Until Liverna's reign of terror ends!"

They got Mia and May and ran to the hidden corridors under the castle. Suddenly, the king and queen combined their magical powers to create a portal to Earth. The king and queen sent their babies to earth. Mia and May ended up on a nice women's porch on a dark and stormy night. As for their parents, they were put in the dungeon by Liverna. The girls were adopted by their aunt Ellan. They grew up knowing nothing about their real home and family.

One day, when they were both 16 years old, they found a mirror with a woman inside.

"My name is Sareina. What are your names?"

"Our names are Mia and May."

"Wait a sec, brown hair, blue eyes, you're the lost princesses of Seiris! You must come back and take back your throne from the evil Liverna who has thrown your parents in the dungeon 16 years ago! You have untold powers beyond imagination."

As soon as they understood, they were off to reclaim their throne and save their parents! On their way to save the people of the hidden kingdom of Seiris, they stumbled upon a troll's bridge. The troll broke his leg so he could not walk. When he heard the pitter-patter of four feet, it made him sad, so he hopped on one leg to the top of the bridge and told Mia, May, and Sareina to go away, but when May saw the cast on his leg, she reached out to touch it. A big blast of energy popped out of May's hand, and on the troll's leg and when the power went away, the troll's leg was healed! The troll danced around with joy.

Finally, when they got to Seiris, they went into the castle, they took on Liverna when confronted by her. They transformed into fairies. Unbinding their powers, they defeated Liverna, freed their parents, and saved the whole kingdom. The End.
